SECTION B: HOUSEHOLD INFORMATION

Include in the household:

- Yourself and your parent(s) (including stepparent) even if you don't live with your parents, and
- Your sibling(s)/stepsibling(s), even if they don't live with your parent(s), if
 - (A) your parent(s) provide more than half of their support from July 1, 2009 through June 30, 2010, or
 - (B) if any of the children would be required to report your parent (s)' information on the FAFSA; and
- Other people if they now live with your parents, and your parents provide more than half of their support, and will continue to provide more than half of their support from July 1, 2009 through June 30, 2010.

Who is considered a parent?

To respond to the following questions correctly, please note how "parent" is defined within the federal financial aid context.

- If your parents are both living and married to each other, give an account of their combined household and income information.
- If your parent is widowed or single, give an account of his/her household and income information.
- If your widowed or divorced parent has remarried as of today, give an account of the household and income information, which includes both your parent and the person whom he/she has married.
- If your parents have divorced or separated, give an account of the household and income information of that parent with whom you lived most during the past 12 months. If you did not live with one parent more than the other, answer in terms of the parent who provided the most financial support during the past 12 months.

Include in the number in college:

- Yourself, as indicated;
- Other members of your parents' household, if they will attend at least half time in 2009-2010 academic year, and they are in a program that leads to a college degree or certificate.
- Parents cannot be included in the number in college — only in number in household.
